

THE WRITINGS OF
HENRY DAVID THOREAU

JOURNAL

EDITED BY BRADFORD TORREY

II

1850-SEPTEMBER 15, 1851

BOSTON AND NEW YORK
HOUGHTON MIFFLIN AND COMPANY

The Riverside Press, Cambridge

1906

COPYRIGHT 1906 BY HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.

All rights reserved

CONTENTS

CHAPTER I. 1850 (Æt. 32-33)

3

The Religion of the Hindoos — Narrow Shoes — The Town of Bedford — A Visit to Haverhill and the Dustin House — Taste in Eating — Sawing Buttonwood Logs — The Insanity of Heroes — The Sand Cherry — Life in a Small Meadow — Turtle and Horned Pout — Limestone — The Energy of Our Ancestors — A New Bosphorus — Sippio Brister's Grave-stone — Fences — Driving Cows to Pasture — Setting Fire to the Woods — The Incendiary — The View from Goodman's Hill in Sudbury — A Burner of Brush — Tending a Burning — The Regularity of the Cars — The Levels of Life — A Proposed Method of Fighting Wood-Fires — The Yezidis — Insects over the River — Cows in a Pasture — Horses Fighting — The Advantages of a Fire in the Woods — Walking by Night — An Indian Squaw — A Button from the Marquis of Ossoli's Coat — Bones on the Beach — Fresh Water in Sand-Bars — Rags and Meanness — Tobacco Legislation — An Ideal Friend — Conforming — A Drunken Dutchman — Legs as Compasses — Walks about Concord — Meadow-Hay — The Old Marlborough Road — Surface of Water — The Money-Digger — The Railroad — Tall Ambrosia — The Ways of Cows — Flocks of Birds — A Great Blue Heron — The Elm — Uncle Charles Dunbar — Lines on a Flower growing in the Middle of the Road — A Beautiful Heifer — Water the Only Drink — On the River — Music — The Canadian Excursion — Living and Loving one's Life — Canadian Houses — A Frog in the Milk — Apostrophe to Diana — Aground at Patchogue — The Relics of a Human Body on the Beach — Echoes — Sawmills — Begging Indians — The Indian and his Baskets — Uncle Charles on the Dock at New York — Nature in November — The Approach of Winter — Changes made in Views from the cutting down of Woods — Cats run Wild — The Growth of a Wood — Canadian Greatcoats — A Root Fence — Wild Apples — An Old Bone — A Miser and his Surveyor — The Remains of a Coal-Pit — The Pickerel in the Brooks — Wildness — The Attraction of the West — Frightened Cows — The Passing of the Wild Apple — Begging Governments — Old Maps — The First Cold Day — A New Kind of Cranberry — The Discoveries of the Unscientific Man — The Sportiveness of Cattle — Fair Haven Pond — Friends and Acquaintances — Summer Days in Winter — A Muskrat on the Ice — An Encampment of Indians at Concord — Indian Lore — Indian Inventions — Instinct in Women — The Little Irish Boy — Puffballs — An Ocean of Mist.

CHAPTER II. December, 1850 (Æt. 33) 120

Moss — Circulation in Plants — The First Snow — Blue-Curls and Indigo-weed — Hands and Feet — Sweet-Gale — Promethea Cocoons — Frozen-thawed Apples — Swamps in Winter — An Old-fashioned Snow-Storm — A Shrike with Prey — The Death of Friends — Notes from Gordon Cumming — Blue Jays.

CHAPTER III. January-April, 1851 (Æt. 33) 134

A Visit to the Clinton Gingham-Mills — Behavior — The Knowledge of an Unlearned Man — Snow-covered Hills — The Walker Errant — Sauntering — Freedom — F. A. Michaux on Certain Trees — Divine Communications — The Tameness of English Literature — Quotations from Ovid — Panoramas of the Rhine and the Mississippi — The Fertility of America — Midwinter — Sir John Mandeville on the Peoples of the Earth — A Society for the Diffusion of Useful Ignorance — America the She Wolf To-day — The Gregariousness of Man — The Edge of the Meadow — Fleets of Ice-Flakes — Waterfalls within Us — The Ice-Flakes again — Antiquity — The Health of the Farmer — Eating — The Fallibility of Friends — Moral Freedom — Manners and Character — Getting a Living — Actinism — The Floating Crust of the Meadow —

Mythology and Geology — Law and Lawlessness — Carrying off Sims — Governor Boutwell — Concord and Slavery — The Fugitive Slave Law — Slavery and the Press — Mahomet — The Sentence of the Judge — The Servility of Newspapers — A False Idea of Liberty — Real and Actual Communications — The Cat — Love and Marriage.

CHAPTER IV. May, 1851 (Æt. 33) 186

Purity — An Optical Illusion — A Mountain Tarn — Experiments in Living — The Caliph Omar — The Harivansa — The Taming of Beasts and Men — The Study of Nature — False Teeth or a False Conscience — Taking Ether — Moonlight — Notes from Michaux — Vegetation and Human Life — The Development of the Mind — The Mind and its Roots — Man our Contemporary — Names — Wild Apples and their Names — An Inspiring Regret — Medical Botany — The Designs of Providence — True Sites for Houses — The View from the Wayland Hills — An Organ-Grinder — Materia Medica — Tobacco — More Names for Wild Apples.

CHAPTER V. June, 1851 (Æt. 33) 224

A Visit to Worcester — A Fallen Oak — Angelica and Hemlock — Transcendentalism — The Past and the Future — Who boosts You? — F. A. Michaux on the Ohio — Various Trees — Our Garments and the Trees' — A Moonlight Walk — Crossing Bridges at Night — Air-Strata at Night — A Book of the Seasons — South American Notes from Darwin's "Voyage of a Naturalist" — Moonlight — Breathing — The Shimmering of the Moon's Reflections on the Rippled Surface of a Pond — The Bittern's Pumping — Twilight — Music Out-of-Doors — The Whip-poor-will's Moon — Fireflies — Darwin again — The Rapid Growth of Grass — The Birch the Surveyor's Tree — Criticism — Calmness — The Wood Thrush's Song — The Ox's Badges of Servitude — A Visit to a Menagerie — Old Country Methods of Farming — The Hypæthral Character of the "Week" — Dog and Wagon — Haying begun — The Fragrance of the Fir.

CHAPTER VI. July, 1851 (Æt. 33-34)

280

Travellers heard talking at Night — Potato-Fields — Hubbard's Bridge — Moonlight — Sam, the Jailer — Intimations of the Night — Shadows of Trees — Percz Blood's Telescope — The Chastity of the Mind — A Rye-Field — A Visit to the Cambridge Observatory — Charles River — A Gorgeous Sunset — The Forms of Clouds — A Moonlight Walk — The Light of the Moon — Waterfalls within Us — Another Moonlight Walk — Eating a Raw Turnip — The Experience of Ecstasy — The Song Sparrow — Berry-Picking — Signs of the Season — The First of the Dog-Days — Pitch Pine Woods — The Ideal Self — The Life of the Spirit — A Proposed Occupation — The River's Crop — An Old Untravelled Road — A Black Veil — A Human Footprint — The Gentleman — An Immortal Melody — Wild Pigeons — Mirabeau as a Highwayman — Ambrosial Fog — Maimed Geniuses — The Charm of the French Names in Canada — Walking and Writing — Swallows — The Moods of the Mind — Drought — A South Shore Excursion — On the Hingham Boat — Hull — The Cohasset Shore — Daniel Webster's Farm — A Mackerel Schooner — Clark's Island — A Boat Swamped — Digging Clams — The Rut of the Sea — Seals in Plymouth Harbor — Shells and Seaweeds — The Sailboat — Webster's Nearest Neighbor — A Hard Man — Plymouth.

CHAPTER VII. August, 1851 (Æt. 34)

367

Return to Concord — An Ill-managed Menagerie — A Summer Evening — A Musical Performer — The Moon and the Clouds — The Nearness of the Wild — Travelling — Profitable Interest — The Spread of Inventions — The Inspiring Melodies — An Unheeded Warning — Sounds of a Summer Night — The Moon's War with the Clouds — First Signs of Morning — The Dawn — Thistle and Bee — Cool Weather — Delight in Nature — The Snake in the Stomach — The Haying — Dogs and Cows — British Soldiers in Canada — Liberty in Canada — Canadian Fortifications — Prehensile Intellectuals — The Poet and his Moods — Knowing one's Subject —

The Revolution of the Seasons — Rattlesnake-Plantain — The Creak of the Crickets — Botanical Terms — The Cardinal-Flower — The Canadian Feudal System — Government — The Flowering of the Vervain — The Conspicuous Flowers of the Season — The Visit to Canada — De Quincey's Style — Charity and Almshouses — Men observed as Animals — The Price Farm Road — Snake and Toad — An August Wind — Cutting Turf — Burning Brush — The Telegraph — The Fortress of Quebec — A Faithful Flower — Potato Balls — The Seal of Evening — Solitude in Concord — The Names of Plants.

CHAPTER VIII. September, 1851 (Æt. 34)

440

Disease the Rule of Existence — Finding one's Faculties — Telegraphs — Moose-lipped Words — Cato's De Re Rustica — The Horse and Man — Health and Disease — The Telegraph Harp — Walking in England — A Walk to Boon's Pond in Stow — The Farmer and His Oxen — Tempe and Arcadia — Footpaths for Poets — Writing on Many Subjects — Dammed Streams — The Dog of the Woods — J. J. G. Wilkinson — Fastidiousness — A Lake by Moonlight — A Formalist — The Fullness of Life — Creatures of Institutions — Moments of Inspiration — Gladness — A September Evening — Singing heard at Night — Moonlight on the River — Fair Haven by Moonlight — Northern Lights — Soaring Hawks — The Grass and the Year — The Sky at Night — A Factory-Bell — Sunrise — The Color of the Poke — The Stone-mason's Craft — Moral Effort — Benvenuto Cellini — An Endymion Sleep — The Mountains in the Horizon — The Telegraph Harp — Perambulating the Bounds — A Pigeon-Place — An Elusive Scent — The Cross-leaved Polygala.