

THE WRITINGS OF
HENRY DAVID THOREAU

JOURNAL

EDITED BY BRADFORD TORREY

IV

MAY 1, 1852-FEBRUARY 27, 1853

BOSTON AND NEW YORK
HOUGHTON MIFFLIN AND COMPANY

The Riverside Press, Cambridge

1906

COPYRIGHT 1906 BY HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.

All rights reserved

CONTENTS

CHAPTER I. May, 1852 (Æt. 34)

3

The Seringo-Bird and Other Birds — Peeping Frogs — Brown Thrushes — The Dream Frog — A May Moon — Salutations — Excitement about Kossuth — Foundations — Flowers and Birds — Red Maple — The Spearkers — Fire, Water, and Wood — The Love Song of the Toad — The Leafing of the Willows — Cowslips — The Toad and its Song — The Songs of Birds — Catnep — A View seen through Haze — Expanding Leaves — Cranberries in Spring — Blackbird Concerts — A Carload of Rock Maples — A May Twilight — The Gray Woods — Young Leaves — Kossuth here — Steadiness and Solidity in Men — A May Storm — The Early Spring Flowers — The Arrival of the Birds — Miscellaneous Notes on the Progress of the Season — Willow Blossoms — Spring Weather — The Vernal Fragrance — The Bellwort — Fresh-Water Clam Shells — A Willful Fragrance — After the May Storm — A May Landscape — Poor Health — Apple Blossoms — A Visit in Plymouth — Blossom Week — A New Version of the Œstrus — The Crickets' Song — The Sweet Flag — A Day of Shadows — The River.

CHAPTER II. June, 1852 (Æt. 34)

78

The Battle of the Moon and the Clouds — The Songs of Birds at Dawn — The Lupine — The First Half of June — The Druids — Notes from Evelyn — Music from a Quart Pot — More Notes from Evelyn — Fugacious Fragrances — The Beauty of Decay — The Blue Flag — Boys Bathing — The White Man the Color of his Clothes — Swallows — The Clintonia — The Carrion-Flower — Jonathan Carver's Travels

— Melting Weather — A Flowery Revolution — A Hot Afternoon — The Sight and Sound of Water in Hot Weather — A Great Hawk — The Purple Fringed Orchis — The River by Starlight — An Early Morning Paddle on the River — The Stake-Driver — Bullfrogs on Lily-Pads — The Crickets at Dawn — A Rock in the Meadow — Lichens — The Art of Music — A Walk to Flag Hill with Channing — The Light of June — The Degrees of the Seasons — The Art of Avoiding Houses on a Walk — Threading Swamps — Flag Hill — The Advantages of Travelling across Country — The Bittern's Pumping — The Bullfrog — The Perception of Beauty — The Flowers of a Dry Hillside — Thunder and Lightning — The Rainbow — Fireflies and Lightning — A "Washing" Day — The Beauty and Fragrance of the Wild Rose — A Hat for a Botany-Box — Neat Cattle — White Pines — The Orientation of Trees — Watching the Clouds — Grasshoppers — Rainbow in the Morning — The Season of Wild Roses — Grateful Coolness — A Moonlight Walk — Craniometry — The Water-Lily — Shadows on the Bottom of the River — Natural Meadows — The Arch — Architecture — A Tree struck by Lightning — The Fear of Lightning — Blueberries — Night on Mountain-Tops — The Growth of the Water-Lily — Nature and Humanity — The River by Moonlight.

CHAPTER III. July, 1852 (Ær. 34-35)

165

The Good Behavior of Cows — Water-Lilies — The Dwarf Raspberry — Breams' Nests — A Sailing Water-Lily — Wild Roses — An Epidemic of Observation — The Moon's Aurora — Blueberry-Pickers — Fresh-Water Clams, the Food of Muskrats — The July Dawn — Sunrise — The Opening and Closing of the Water-Lilies — The Border of Pads on the River — Chastity of Mind — Glass Windows — An Elfin Burial-Ground — A Spring — Concord's Two Rivers — The Calopogon — The Music of the Wood Thrush — An Owl's Hooting — A Pickerel in the Brook — Edmund Hosmer — Nature and the Debauchee — Chickens and Ducklings — The Songs of Birds out of a Fog — A Foggy Morning — The

Names of Orchids — Sub-pontean Life — The Necessity of Bathing — The Luna Moth — An Old Chinese Inscription — The Luxury of Bathing — The Brows of Earth — Hot, Dry Weather — A Fluvial Walk — An Old Pout with her Young — Drouth and Cultivation — Meadow Walking — A Healthy Intoxication — Another Walk in the River — Stone-Heaps in the River — A Twilight Walk — The Ripening of Wild Fruits — Clothing in Hot Weather — Albinos — Fleets of Butterflies — Bass Flowers and Bees — Beck Stow's Swamp — The River in its Glory — The Odor of the Water-Lily — The Sudbury Meadows — Dew and Fog — Blue-Curls — After Sunset — July Dawn — A July Evening — The Haying Season — A Sunset — The Afterglow — Drouth — Unprofitable Occupation — The Hardiness of Cows — A Sea of Fog — Lists of Flowers in and out of Blossom — The Wings of a Moth — The Luxury of Walking in the River — Schools of Young Bream — The Thrush's Song — The Value of the Distant Mountain Range — Asters and Goldenrod — History and War — Birds' Eggs.

CHAPTER IV. August, 1852 (Ær. 35)

271

Wachusett in the Horizon — The Enchantment of Music — Funeral Customs — A View of Walden — Miles's Blueberry Swamp — William Gilpin — The Beauty of the Rainbow — Flowers along a Brook — A Liberal Education — The Use of the Rainbow — Morning Fog — A Personal Identity with Sadi — Double Consciousness — Alcott as a Genealogist — The Man of the West — Marsh Hibiscus — An August Morning — The Aroma of Green Walnuts — Hibiscus Flowers — Plants brought from the White Mountains by Miss Hoar — A Cold Brook — Brilliant Fruits — An Early Reddening of Leaves — Self-Expression — The River-Bank — A Moonlight Walk — The Surface of Things — Desire for True Friendship — Cuttlefish Lives — The High Blackberry — The Ghost-Horse — Rain — Walden Pond — Village Culture — A River Voyage — Sunshine after Rain — A Small Hawk — Sunset on the Water — Bitterns.

CHAPTER V. September, 1852 ( Æt. 35)	335
The Necessity of Tragedy — Thistle-Down on the Pond — The Color of Walden — Its Varied Shores — Gilpin and Loch Fyne — A Moonlight Walk — An Excursion to Peterboro and Monadnock — The Peterboro Hills — Wolves on Monadnock — Ascent of Monadnock — The Law of Love — Wild-Flowers and Rain — Idleness and Employment — Observation — A Soaring Hawk — Barberrying — The Surface of a Lake — Wild Apples — A Scarecrow — The Flower of Autumn — Mountains in the Distance — The Second Spring — A Bee-Hunting Excursion.
CHAPTER VI. October, 1852 ( Æt. 35)	376
Grass Balls — Chasing a Loon — The Walden Loon — Wild Ducks on Walden — An Experiment with Ground-Nuts — Fairhaven Pond in Autumn — The First Snow — The Water of Walden — October on the River — The Fringed Gentian — The View from a Mountain-Top — Caddis-Worms — Timber in the Old World and the New — An October Sunset — Friends and Strangers — Late Autumnal Tints — The Constitution of the Indian Mind — Notes from Richard Harlan — October Moonlight — A Wild Bee.
CHAPTER VII. November, 1852 ( Æt. 35)	405
Man in the World — Schools of Small Perch — A November Landscape — Thorer of Steige — The Indian Path around Walden — A Sail up River — The Snow on the Twigs — Food and the Imagination.
CHAPTER VIII. December, 1852 ( Æt. 35)	419
A Mink — The Muskrat's House — The Rise and Fall of Walden — Walden's Water — Chestnuts — The Frost on the Cistus — A Mouse and its Nest — The First Skating — Wisdom in Living — Gathering Chestnuts — Frozen Rain.

CHAPTER IX. January, 1853 ( Æt. 35)	436
Ice Incrustations — Ice-clad Trees — Agassiz's Opinion of Harris — Uncle Charles — The Ice in the Woods — Building a Fire in the Woods — Nature and Man — The Yellow Birch — Squirrel-Tracks — Bubbles in the Ice — A Pleasant Winter Morning — A Powder-Mill Explosion — The Wreck at the Mills — The Ice-Bubbles — The Telegraph Harp — Crow-foot Buds — Chestnutting — A Cider-Drinker — Snowflakes — The Farmer and Ship-Timber — Rivals — The Blue Sky at Night — The Stars and the Eye — Silence — Moonlight and Shadows — The Track of an Otter — A Springlike Afternoon — The Pickerel of Walden — The Trees which Wear Leaves in January — Mornings of Creation — The Roominess of Nature — Drifting Snow — Pickerel-Fishing through the Ice — The Forms of Ice on a Brook — Wildness — The Exploits of the Farmer — The Pickerel of Walden — De Quincey on the Downward Direction of the Eyes.
CHAPTER X. February, 1853 ( Æt. 35)	487
Ducks in the River — A Thick Fog — The Ramparts about the Edges of Ponds — A Grizzly Bear — A Remarkable Echo — A Pitch Pine Cone — The Humming of the Snipe.	